A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Remarkable Statement of Personal Danger and Providential Escape.

The following story—which is attracting wide attention from the press—is so remarkable that we cannot excuse ourselves if we do not lay it before our readers, entire.
To the Editor Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat:

On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, and weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull pains in various parts of the body and do not understand why. Or they are exceedingly tired one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me began. Still I thought nothing of it; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a heavy and at times neuralgic pain in one side of my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next, I paid little attention to it. Then my stomach would get out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Next, even as a physician I did not think that these things meant anything serious. I fancied I was suffering from malaria and doctored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared on the surface and a sediment settled. And yet I did not realize my danger, for indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly dissipated by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand.

I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the famed mineral springs in America and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation; another, dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of named diseases. All the symptoms of many of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symptoms I had at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant agonies. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a burden to myself and friends. I could retain no food on my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrollable. In my agony I frequently fell to the floor and clutched the carpet, and prayed for death. Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death-premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My water was filled with tube-casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's Disease of the kidneys in its last stages.

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, at that time rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures of his stomach, for which had come under his observation. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I decided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being in the least beneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejudice, and began its use on the first day of June, 1881, and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but the thought was a good sign, for one in my debilitated condition, I continued to take it: the sickening sensation departed and I was finally able to retain food on my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better, as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced more rest than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying couch, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover, I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity, and this letter is in fulfillment of that vow. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly re-investigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive features of its own (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity), but has the symptoms of nearly every other common complaint. Hundreds of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate as occurring from "Heart Disease," "Apoplexy," "Paralysis," "Spinal Complaint," "Rheumatism," "Pneumonia," and other common complaints, when in reality it is from Bright's disease of the kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence, if at all, by the commonest symptoms and fastens itself in the constitution before the victim is aware of it. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died, and yet none of the number knew or realized the mysterious power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms often show none whatever, but brings death suddenly, from convulsions, apoplexy, or heart disease. As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore everyone who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptoms of kidney difficulty. No one can afford to hazard such chances. I make the foregoing statements based upon facts, which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be sufferers such as I was, is an ample inducement for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all professional and personal consequences.

Mr. G. L. Mitchell is very much indisposed at present writing.

Now is not this surprising. Just to think of it. Our bachelor friend, Hatton Sargent, is contemplating matrimony and is seen wending his way in the same direction often.

The highest structure in the world is Eiffel Tower, at Paris, 1,000 feet high. But the great discovery of Dr. Franklin Miles is certain to tower far above it in promoting human happiness and health. This wonderful nerve modulator builds up worn-out systems, cures fits, spasms, headache, nervous prostration, dizziness, sleeplessness, morbidly pains, sexual troubles, etc. John D. Miller, of Valparaiso, Ind., and J. D. Taylor, of Loganport, Ind., gained 50 pounds a month while taking it. Information Wanted.

Clarence W. Bowen, Secretary of the Committee on the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration, 251 Broadway, New York, desires information regarding the portraits of John Walker, William Grayson, Theodorick Bland and Alexander White, Members of Congress from Virginia. These portraits, for Memorial Volume, are particularly desired, to complete the list of portraits of the Virginia delegation in Congress at the time of Washington's Inauguration.

Thousands Poisoned.

In a recent work on Heart Disease, Dr. Franklin Miles—the noted specialist—gives many new and startling facts. Thousands of people are slowly poisoning themselves, weakening their hearts by the use of tea, coffee, tobacco and alcohol. These are heart whips, causing it to beat rapidly, thus gradually wearing it out, producing shortness of breath when exerting, pains in the side and shoulder, hungry and faint spells. Finally heart failure and sudden death. For weakened and irritated hearts the press everywhere highly recommends the New Heart Cure discovered by Dr. Franklin Miles, which is for sale at J. W. Gayle's drug store.

The aim of melo-dramas now before the public is to present to the theatergoer a series of exciting climaxes and strong situations, with no attempt at reality or life-like naturalness. This has happily been availed in "The Paymaster," which was presented at the Lyceum last night before a large audience. On every side we see "last actions" where the undeviating "trying to get the up-and-down" of struggling humanity. The story of the play is fraught with any number of good points, which are not uncommon in every day life. The piece was seen in Minneapolis last season, so that extended criticism is unnecessary here. Suffice to say, it was given a very creditable production at the Lyceum last night. The management of an improvement over that of last season. The scenery is new in every instance. The scene of the exterior of Inslavague prison, with the river scene beneath being especially good.

Charles Chappelle as Robert Emmet O'Connor gave a finished performance, and when he made his escape from Inslavague prison, jumped into the waters beneath. The audience broke forth in rapturous applause. Steve Maye, as Larry O'Brien was humorous and comical. Miss Lillian Schovel, as Ethel Milly, was smooth and artistic. The Paymaster will be seen at the Opera House Monday night, Feb. 9th.

Successful Trainer.

A. B. Hutchings, of Danville, who had such success the past summer in the Blue Grass Circuit with Evangeline, Mimic, Hixie, McGregor and others, writes "I have used Quinn's Ointment for some time and think it superior to all others, for Bog, Spavins and Curbs it has no equal." Try it.

People's Theatre.

As the name implies "On the Frontier" is a story, in which life on the borders of civilization is depicted. It is a melo-drama, wherein a love story is surrounded by any number of exciting adventures. While the theme is conventional, however, the author has deviated from the western plays of the past, and has made her hero in love with a girl of his own sphere of life, instead of bringing a woman from the scenes of refinement and education, simply to be rescued by the hero and finally married by him. The best scene in the second act between Jack and Blueflower, "two children of the forest," is a gem. There is no dearth of action or of striking situations, and the audience testified last night that the love for border drama is strong. Plays in which Indians, scouts, and soldiers figure are generally popular, and "On the Frontier" is a popular play, and a faithful picture of rugged Western life.

James M. Hardie made an effective hero. He is a strong actor, and invested the central character with a virile romanticism which won the hearts of his auditors. Miss Sara Van Leer also did good work, and the supporting company was excellent. —N. Y. World.

If the young men, who call to see their girls these long winter evenings, do not wish to be met on the steps with the words: "Miss Laura is sick with a cold, and can't be seen," they had better keep them well supplied with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It costs only 25 cents a bottle.

Esperance for Electrical Information.

An interesting sign of the great desire of the general public to acquire sound, even if elementary, ideas of electricity and electric arts has been given in the rush for tickets for the course to be given at Columbia College. It has been the desire of President Low from the first to place the college in sympathy with popular intellectual needs and tendencies, and in its way this series of electrical lectures meets just such a want as, if unsatisfied, leads often to downright evil and loss. The tickets cost $10 for the series, and the whole hundred of them have already been snapped up, while further applications are received daily. Each lecture will be accompanied by experiments, so that each auditor will be able to catch the meaning of every appliance or process, and do everything except see the current flow.

The 100 subscribers to the lectures are generally professional men and people of education, who feel that ignorance of one of the greatest and most pervasive agencies of the times cannot be endured. Lawyers to whom electrical matters are brought, capitalists who know that the electrical fortunes have not yet been made, yet who cannot now discriminate; students desirous to be instructed as to the latest ideas and doctrines in electricity; mechanics and inventors on the watch for new opportunities—all these are represented on the list. What Columbia is doing in this public spirited way can be done by other American seats of learning surrounded by great populations. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

Disorders which Affect the Kidneys.

Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel and other complaints of the urinary organs are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be cured by timely medication. A careful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hestor's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus with the most invigorating, but increases their vigor and secretory power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of these organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthening of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and liver and spleen. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

Educational.

A large majority of the children within the schools do not attend school; who is to blame for this?

Can some one devise a plan by which we can make parents feel that they are not only responsible to their God, but also to their country for raising their children up in ignorance.

Are our schools of to-day as good as they were twenty years ago? There are citizens of Frankfort, who have seen young men and ladies from other States attending the schools here, is it so now? Oh, for the days of B. B. Saye, Philip Fall and others of their days. We can and should make our schools the best in the State. We have the talent here in our midst, do not have to impart it, let us use the talents given us and Frankfort will soon have the educational center of the State.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

Civil Government is that authority by which a State or a nation is ruled. It is established to preserve and keep society in order. Every boy and girl should study it, so that they will understand the nature of crimes and punishments, and can keep from committing a crime. Knowledge of the law is essential to peace, happiness and prosperity of every government. Civil Government is one of the most important studies in school. Yet how few know the law. But ignorance of the law excuses no one. Every one is held accountable for violating a law. Some of the people in the penitentiary may have violated some law, which they did not know was a crime. I think if every one knew the law that we would have a better county. Boys especially ought to study Civil Government so when they get old enough to vote they will know which man is qualified to hold an office. Civil Government ought to have been taught in the schools long ago, but it took a good many years to bring it out.

How Eastern Kentucky Views It.

Louisville's Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce have, so the press of that city assures us, determined to do everything in their power to have the State Capitol removed from Frankfort to Louisville. But to us, away up here in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, it seems that Louisville's Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce could better employ their time in doing everything in their power to secure this place of the State from Cincinnati's influence. While the two great trade organizations are wasting their time in trying to starve out our historic and beautiful Frankfort by depriving her of her only means of support, which, if taken, could add but little to Louisville's importance, Cincinnati is quietly holding the trade of Eastern Kentucky, which has even been here, and is daily increasing her strength and power in this section. One-half the amount necessary to secure the location of the State Capitol at Louisville would finish the building and equipment of the R. R. & B. R. to this point, and would open to Louisville, our metropolis, an empire of mineral wealth, give her the advantage over Cincinnati with reference to the trade of this rapidly growing and wonderful section of the State, add hundreds of thousands of dollars to the amount of Louisville's business, enrich her wholesale men and jobbers, and prosper this great territory, which has so long suffered for want of Louisville's assistance. We beg of Louisville and her trade organizations that they increase their railroad facilities into this section, and that they will come to them and us. Let Frankfort alone and help us and yourselves. Is it not better to build up than to destroy? Bentleyville Enterprise.

L. F. GANTER'S MAGIC REMOVER!

The MAGIC REMOVER fills a long felt want with owners of Horses or Mules with Warts, Knots, Bruises, Cuts, Strains, Sprains, Old Sores, Barb Wire Cuts, etc. It makes no difference how long the knot has been there, or how hard it is, (if it is not of the bone,) we will take it off on the "NO CURE, NO PAY" plan. In removing the knot the hair comes off, and the place becomes very sore; when you stop using it, the hair comes back its original color, and not a trace of the knot is left. For plan of insurance, etc., call at the undersigned druggist's, and bring your animal with you.
